A new subdivision (r) is added to section 1001.11 to read as follows:

(r) If an enhanced assisted living residence employs or uses advanced home health aides, the operator must ensure that every advanced home health aide:

(1) is listed on the home care worker registry maintained by the department; and

(2) is trained as specified in section 700.2 of this title and receives 18 hours of in-service education annually to include medication management, infection control, injection safety and other topics relevant to their responsibilities which must be directly supervised by a registered professional nurse; and

(3) is directly supervised by a registered professional nurse who:

(i) provides training, guidance, direction and oversight, and evaluation related to the performance of advanced tasks by the advanced home health aide;

(ii) assigns advanced tasks to be performed by the advanced home health aide after completing a nursing assessment to determine the resident's current health status and care needs;

the advanced tasks, and the health status of the resident for whom the advanced tasks are being performed;

(5) any failure by a supervising registered professional nurse to comply with the requirements of paragraph three of this subdivision shall be reported to the department.

REGULATORY IMPACT STATEMENT

Statutory Authority:

This proposal will implement amendments to Public Health Law (PHL) Article 28-E requiring certain providers licensed by the Department of Health (Department) to request criminal history record checks (CHRCs) of prospective employees in conformance with Executive Law § 845-b. PHL § 2899-a(4) requires the Commissioner of Health (Commissioner) to promulgate regulations implementing PHL Article 28-E, and Executive Law § 845-b(12) requires the Department to promulgate regulations to implement criminal history information requests.

This proposal also will implement Chapter 471 of the Laws of 2016, which authorized advanced home health aides to perform advanced tasks under the supervision of registered professional nurses employed by home care services agencies, hospice programs, and enhanced assisted living residences (EALRs). PHL § 3602(17), added by Chapter 471, requires the Commissioner to issue regulations pertaining to advanced home health aides.

PHL § 3612(5) authorizes the Public Health and Health Planning Council (PHHPC) to adopt and amend regulations pertaining to certified home care services agencies and long term home health care programs approved pursuant to PHL Article 36, subject to approval of the Commissioner. PHL § 4010(4) authorizes PHHPC to adopt and amend regulations for hospice providers approved pursuant to PHL Article 40, subject to approval of the Commissioner.

Legislative Objectives:

PHL Article 28-E requires “providers” to request that the Department conduct a CHRC of each “prospective employee.” PHL § 2899(3) provides that an “employee” means any person to be employed or used by a “provider” to provide “direct care or supervision” to patients or residents. Individuals licensed under Education Law Title 8 (various health care professionals) or PHL Article 28-D (nursing home administrators) or who are volunteers are excluded from the definition of “employee.” A “prospective employee,” as defined by PHL § 2899(5), is an individual who files an employment application and the provider expects to hire as an employee.

Chapters 60 and 94 of the Laws of 2014 amended PHL § 2899(6) to include within the definition of “provider” adult homes, enriched housing programs, and residences for adults licensed under Social Services Law (SSL) Article 7. SSL § 461-t similarly states that these entities must request CHRCs of their prospective direct care employees. PHL § 2899(10) was also amended to permit such employees to be temporarily approved to work pending the results of their CHRCs under the condition that the provider conducts direct observation and evaluation of the employee.

The definition of “provider” in PHL § 2899(6) was again expanded by Chapter 471 of the Laws of 2016 to include hospice programs certified under PHL Article 40 with respect to employees hired on or after April 1, 2018. Chapter 206 of the Laws of 2017 amended PHL § 2899(10) to permit these employees to be temporarily approved to work pending the results of their CHRCs under the direct observation and evaluation of the provider.

Chapter 471 also added Education Law § 6908(2) to permit advanced tasks to be performed by advanced home health aides with appropriate training and under supervision by registered professional nurses employed by home care services agencies, hospice programs, and EALRs. Regulations issued by the State Education Department in consultation with the Department will specify the types of advanced tasks that can be performed by advanced home health aides and set forth the qualifications, training and competency requirements for advanced home health aides. This proposal will implement other provisions of the law by amending regulations applicable to home care services agencies, hospice programs, and EALRs to address the supervision of advanced home health aides.

These provisions will further the statutory goal of enabling more people to live in home and community based settings and provide support to family caregivers and their loved ones.

https://www.governor.ny.gov/sites/governor.ny.gov/files/atoms/files/2016_State_of_the_State_Book.pdf (p. 271-72).

Needs and Benefits:

The proposed changes to Part 402 of Title 10 of the Official Compilation of Codes, Rules and Regulations of the State of New York (NYCRR) will implement laws requiring CHRCs for adult homes, enriched housing programs, residences for adults, and hospice programs. As reflected in the regulations, these entities must request that the Department obtain criminal history information from the Division of Criminal Justice Services and a national criminal history check from the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) concerning each prospective unlicensed employee who will provide direct care or supervision. Before such employees can begin working, they must consent to a digital scan of their fingerprints, which will be electronically transmitted to the Division of Criminal Justice Services (Division) for processing. The Division will subsequently provide criminal history information back to the Department.

Consistent with PHL Article 28-E, the Department will then review the information based on criteria in Executive Law § 845-b. The Department will advise the provider whether the applicant has a criminal history, and, if so, whether the history is of such a nature that the Department disapproves eligibility for employment. The individual will have 30 days to provide rehabilitation documentation in support of their application before the Department makes a final disapproval determination. In some cases, a person may have a criminal background, but any convictions may not rise to the level requiring disapproval of eligibility for employment based on Executive Law § 845-b criteria. In other cases, there may be open charges that, if they resulted in a conviction, would result in denials, and the Department will hold such applications in abeyance until the charges are resolved.

Individuals are afforded an opportunity to explain, in writing, why their eligibility for employment should not be disapproved before the Department makes its final determination disapproving eligibility for employment. If the Department makes a final determination disapproving eligibility, the provider must notify the person that the criminal history information is the basis for such disapproval.

The proposed regulations set forth certain responsibilities of providers in implementing the CHRC requirements. Providers also must ensure that prospective employees who will be subject to the CHRC requirement are notified of the provider's right to request their criminal history information, and that they have the right to obtain, review, and seek correction of such information in accordance with regulations of the Division or, with regard to federal criminal history information, to seek correction of information with the FBI.

This proposal will also implement PHL § 3602(17), added by Chapter 471 of the Laws of 2016, defining advanced home health aides as home health aides who are authorized to perform advanced tasks as set forth in Education Law § 6908(2). The regulations also reflect the inclusion of hospice programs and EALRs in the definition of "home care services entity" set forth in PHL § 3613(1)(a) for purposes of the Home Care Services Worker Registry (Registry).

PHL§ 3613(9) provides that the Department must indicate within the Registry when a home health aide is qualified to serve as an advanced home health aide because he or she has satisfied all applicable training and competency requirements. Accordingly, this proposal will amend 10 NYCRR Part 403 to add advanced home health aides, advanced home health aide training programs, EALRs, and hospice programs to the Registry.

This proposal further will amend Part 700 to define an “advanced home health aide” as a certified home health aide who has met all requirements to perform advanced tasks and is listed in the Registry. Parts 763, 766, 793, 794, and 1001 also will be amended to reflect requirements related to advanced home health aides and the supervisions thereof by registered professional nurses employed by home care agencies – meaning certified home health agencies (CHHAs), long term home health care programs (LTHHCPs), and licensed home care services agencies (LHCSAs) – as well as EALRs and hospice programs.

COSTS:

Costs to Private Regulated Parties:

The proposed regulatory changes related to CHRCs would apply to adult homes, enriched housing programs, residences for adults, and hospice programs. As explained above, when such an entity determines to hire or otherwise use an individual who is unlicensed and will have access to patients or residents or their living quarters, it must request a CHRC pursuant to PHL Article 28-E. The entity must include with the request a fee, currently $99. Of this amount, $75 covers the fee established by the Division for processing a State criminal history record check and $12.00 is for a national criminal history record check. Further, obtaining the fingerprints used for CHRC requests, which is accomplished through a vendor, costs approximately $12.00 per individual. Pursuant to PHL § 2899-a(9)(a) and as reflected in the proposed amendments to 10 NYCRR § 402.10, providers will be reimbursed for such fees and costs when funds are appropriated in the state budget.

The proposed regulatory changes related to advanced home health aides apply to home care services agencies (CHHAs, LTHHCPs, and LHCSAs), EALRs, and hospice programs only to the extent they desire to use such aides. The registered professional nurses who supervise advanced home health aides will spend additional time carrying out the supervisory obligations set forth in the law and proposed regulations, but to some extent this will be offset by the ability to use such aides to carry out many of the tasks that otherwise would be carried out directly by the nurses.

Costs to Local Government:

The proposed changes are not expected to impose any costs upon local governments, unless they operate one of the afore-referenced entities. In such cases, the impact will be the same as for regulated parties, discussed above.

Costs to the Department of Health:

The proposed regulations will not impose costs upon the Department in addition to any imposed as a result of the statutory changes enacted with respect to CHRCs and advanced home health aides. Additional work by Department staff that process CHRC requests or participate in regulatory activities involving adult homes, enriched housing programs, residences for adults, home care services agencies, or hospice programs, is being managed within existing resources.

Costs to Other State Agencies:

Due to the legislative enactments reflected in this proposal, the volume of CHRC requests fulfilled by the Division will be higher but should be managed within existing resources.

Similarly, the State Education Department, in consultation with the Department of Health, will approve programs that train advanced home health aides, which is expected to be managed within existing resources.

Local Government Mandate:

The proposed regulations do not impose any new mandates on local governments, except where they operate local providers such as a home care services agency or a hospice program. In such cases, the impact will be the same as for regulated parties, discussed above.

Paperwork:

Consistent with the statutory provisions, the proposed regulations will require the completion of additional paperwork by adult homes, enriched housing programs, residences for adults, and hospice programs that request CHRCs. For example, providers will need to complete and submit a form to notify the Department of a prospective employee needing to be fingerprinted. A provider may also be asked to submit information not known to the Department to assist the Department in vetting and perfecting the criminal history of a prospective employee. Further, providers will need to document the supervision of employees that they temporarily approve to work pending the results of the CHRC.

Home care service agencies, EALRs, and hospice programs are already required to establish written policies and procedures related to various operational requirements, including the training and supervision of employees. Therefore, although additional paperwork will be required to ensure that advanced home health aides are properly trained and supervised, this type of documentation should be familiar to these providers. Accessing the Registry is new for EALRs and hospice programs, but the Department has and will continue to make training and assistance available to guide them through these changes.

Duplication:

This rule does not duplicate any other law, rule or regulation.

Alternatives:

There are no alternatives to this proposal, which is necessary to implement legislative enactments expanding the provider types subject to the CHRC program and authorizing the use of advanced home health aides.

Federal Standards:

The proposed regulations do not duplicate or conflict with any federal regulations.

Compliance Schedule:

The regulations will be effective upon publication of a Notice of Adoption in the New York State Register.

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ANALYSIS FOR SMALL BUSINESSES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

Effect of Rule:

To the extent this proposal implements statutory requirements related to criminal history record checks (CHRCs), it will be applicable to adult homes, enriched housing programs, residences for adults, and hospice programs. The provisions of the proposal related to advanced home health aides will apply to certified home health agencies (CHHAs), long term care home health care programs (LTHHCPs), or licensed home care services agencies (LHCSAs), hospice programs, or enhanced assisted living residences (EALRs) that choose to use advanced home health aides. Any of these entities, depending on their size, could constitute a small business. This proposal will only impact local governments if they operate one of these entities.

Compliance Requirements:

This proposal will require adult homes, enriched housing programs, residences for adults, and hospice programs to request CHRCs pursuant to PHL Article 28-E whenever they determine to hire or otherwise use unlicensed individuals who provide direct care or supervision to patients or residents. Consistent with the statutory provisions, compliance with the proposed regulations will require the completion of additional paperwork by these entities; for example, by completing a form that notifies the Department of a prospective employee who needs to be fingerprinted. A provider may also be asked to submit information not known to the Department to assist the Department in vetting and perfecting the criminal history of a prospective employee. Further, providers will need to document the supervision of employees that they temporarily approve to work pending the results of the CHRC.

The proposed regulatory changes related to advanced home health aides are applicable to home care services agencies (meaning CHHAs, LTHHCPs, and LHCSAs), EALRs, and hospice programs only to the extent they desire to use such aides under the supervision of registered professional nurses they employ. The registered professional nurses who supervise advanced home health aides will spend additional time carrying out the supervisory obligations set forth in the law and proposed regulations, but to some extent this will be offset by the ability to use such aides to carry out many of the tasks that otherwise would be carried out directly by the nurses.

Home care service agencies, EALRs, and hospice programs are already required to establish written policies and procedures related to various operational requirements, including the training and supervision of employees. Therefore, although additional paperwork will be required to ensure that advanced home health aides are properly trained and supervised, this type of documentation should be familiar to these providers. Accessing the Registry is new for EALRs and hospice programs, but the Department has and will continue to make training and assistance available to guide them through these changes.

Professional Services:

The CHRC provisions of this proposal are not expected to require any additional use of professional services. The proposed regulatory changes related to advanced home health aides are applicable to home care services agencies (meaning CHHAs, LTHHCPs, and LHCSAs), EALRs, and hospice programs only to the extent they desire to use such aides, in which case they must ensure that the aides are supervised by registered professional nurses. The registered professional nurses who supervise advanced home health aides will spend additional time carrying out the supervisory obligations set forth in the law and proposed regulations, but to some extent this will be offset by the ability to use such aides to carry out many of the tasks that otherwise would be carried out directly by the nurses.

Compliance Costs:

Entities submitting CHRC requests must submit a fee, currently $99, together with a CHRC request, and will incur costs of approximately $12.00 per individual for obtaining the fingerprints. Pursuant to PHL § 2899-a(9)(a), and as reflected in the proposed amendments to 10 NYCRR § 402.10, providers will be reimbursed for such fees and costs when funds are appropriated in the state budget.

If CHHAs, LTHHCPs, LHCSAs, EALRs, and hospice programs choose to use advanced home health aides, they must do so under the supervision of registered professional nurses they employ. The registered professional nurses will spend additional time carrying out the supervisory obligations set forth in the law and proposed regulations, but to some extent this will be offset by the ability to use such aides to carry out many of the tasks that otherwise would be carried out directly by the nurses.

Economic and Technological Feasibility:

This proposal is economically and technically feasible. As indicated above, providers will be reimbursed for fees and costs associated with the CHRC requirements. Providers that can and choose to use advanced home health aides must do so under the supervision of registered professional nurses. It is expected that in many cases the additional time spent by the registered professional nurses in supervising the advanced home health aides will be offset by the ability to use such aides to carry out many of the tasks that otherwise would be carried out directly by the nurses.

Minimizing Adverse Impact:

There are no alternatives to the proposed regulations, which are consistent with the statutory provisions regarding CHRCs and advanced home health aides enacted by Chapters 60 and 94 of the Laws of 2014, Chapter 471 of the Laws of 2016, and Chapter 206 of the Laws of 2017.

Small Business and Local Government Participation:

Development of these regulations included input from organizations including those whose members include providers that constitute small businesses or are operated by local governments.

Cure Period:

Chapter 524 of the Laws of 2011 requires agencies to include a “cure period” or other opportunity for ameliorative action to prevent the imposition of penalties on a party subject to enforcement when developing a regulation or explain in the Regulatory Flexibility Analysis why one is not included. As this proposed regulation does not create a new penalty or sanction, no cure period is necessary.

STATEMENT IN LIEU OF RURAL AREA FLEXIBILITY ANALYSIS

No rural area flexibility analysis is required pursuant to § 202-bb(4)(a) of the State Administrative Procedure Act. The proposed amendments will not impose an adverse impact on facilities in rural areas, and will not impose reporting, record keeping or other compliance requirements on facilities in rural areas.

STATEMENT IN LIEU OF JOB IMPACT STATEMENT

No job impact statement is required pursuant to § 201-a(2)(a) of the State Administrative Procedure Act. No adverse impact on jobs and employment opportunities is expected as a result of these proposed regulations.

ASSESSMENT OF PUBLIC COMMENT

The New York State Department of Health (Department) received comments from seven entities regarding the proposed amendments to Parts 402, 403, 700, 763, 765, 766, 793, 794, and 1001 of Title 10 of the Official Compilation of Codes, Rules and Regulations of the State of New York.

Comment: An advocacy organization that focuses on direct care workforce issues stated that the proposed regulations (specifically the proposed amendments to 10 NYCRR § 700.2(b)(54)) should detail the process for approval and monitoring of training for advanced home health aides.

Response: The Department will provide guidance on the procedures, approval, and monitoring of training programs. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: An advocacy organization that focuses on direct care workforce issues stated that State Education Law § 6908(2)(b)(iv) requires that registered professional nurses (RNs) “visit individuals receiving services for the purpose of supervising the services provided by advanced home health aides no less than once every two weeks.” The commenter noted that such visits have financial and operational implications and requested that the Department consider permitting options other than in-person visits, such as permitting remote supervision via the use of technology.

Response: Noting that State Education Law § 6908(2)(b)(iv) also requires an RN to be available to an advanced home health aide by telephone 24 hours a day, the Department, in consultation with the New York State Education Department, interprets the requirement for a “visit” once every two weeks to mean an “in-person” visit. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: An advocacy organization that focuses on direct care workforce issues stated that the regulations should be amended to include details about the duration of certification for advanced home health aides and the process for recertification. The commenter suggested that a model can be found in the current requirements for home health aides, where certification lapses when an individual has not worked for a home care agency for two full years, and an aide can be recertified through the successful completion of a competency examination.

Response: The Department does not believe it is necessary to include the requested information about certification in the regulation. This information will be made available by the Department in the form of guidance. No changes to the regulation are necessary.

Comment: An advocacy organization that focuses on direct care workforce issues suggested that the regulations should include a requirement for the formation of a stakeholder workgroup.

Response: The Department has previously convened a workgroup related to advanced home health aides and intends to do so again. Convening a workgroup in this manner does not require a regulation. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: An association representing long term care providers suggested that the scope of practice for advanced home health aides should be expanded to include additional tasks suggested by a workgroup convened by the Department.

Response: Pursuant to the New York State Education Law, the scope of practice for advanced home health aides will be established pursuant to regulations of the State Education Department. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: Several commenters (an association of hospice programs, two associations representing long term care providers, an association representing adult care facility providers, and a certified home health agency) noted that when an individual declines services by an advanced home health aide, the regulation provides for the services to be provided by an RN. The commenters suggest that the regulation should include licensed practical nurses (LPNs) as well.

Response: Services provided by an advanced home health aide are considered skilled in nature and an extension of the RN's practice. Consequently, individuals who exercise their right to refuse of services provided by an advanced home health aide should receive services from an RN. The Department will consider whether expanding the regulation to include LPNs could provide an appropriate level of care in the future. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: An association of long term care providers and a certified home health agency noted that, in addition to requiring that advanced home health aides be supervised by RNs and not LPNs, the regulation eliminates current language permitting LPNs to supervise home health aides and personal care aides. The commenters believe that home health aides and personal care aides should continue to be supervised by LPNs.

Response: Pursuant to federal regulation 42 CFR 484.36, supervision of home health aides and personal care aides must be conducted by registered professional nurses. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: An association of long term care providers and an association of adult care facilities commented that the regulation's requirement that any failure by a supervising RN be reported to the Department is too broad and subjective.

Response: This provision is consistent Public Health Law § 206(30) and Education Law § 6909(8). The Department believes that a registered professional nurse that engages in improper behavior while supervising an advanced home health aide should be reported. The grounds for improper behavior by a supervising registered professional nurse are listed specifically in the regulation. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: An association of long term care providers asked whether personal care aides and home health aides who have completed a state approved training program and are employed by an enhanced assisted living residence (EALR) are subject to the provisions of Part 403 related to the Home Care Services Registry (Registry).

Response: The regulations provide that all individuals who complete a state-approved home health aide or personal care aide training program and are employed by an EALR are subject to the Registry requirements.

Comment: An association of long term care providers and an association of adult care facilities asked if a licensed home care services agency associated with an Assisted Living Program (ALP) can offer advanced home health aide services to residents in the ALP.

Response: Section 494.3 of Title 18 specifically indicates that the provision of nursing and therapy services provided to individuals who reside in the ALP must be provided by a certified home health agency. Further, on June 7, 2012, the Department issued guidance regarding the Medicaid program's revised regulations, allowing ALPs to conduct initial and re-assessments directly or through contract with a certified home health agency. Services provided by an advanced home health aide are considered skilled in nature and an extension of the RN's practice.

Comment: An association of adult care facilities asked if the phrase "or services" could be added to 10 NYCRR § 402.3(i)(3) to clarify that the criminal history record check provisions apply to all unlicensed staff that have regular face to face interactions with residents.

Response: This clarification will be provided in guidance issued to providers. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: A certified home health agency asked whether the organization employing an advanced home health aide must also employ the supervising RN.

Response: The supervising RN must be employed by the same entity which employs the advanced home health aide. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: A certified home health agency requested clarification as to whether medical orders for advanced home health aides must be in writing or if verbal orders can be obtained.

Response: Pursuant to 10 NYCRR 766.4, physician orders may be obtained verbally but signed orders must be obtained within 12 months. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: A certified home health agency requested clarification as to whether the minimum 18 hours in-service training required for advanced home health aides under the regulations includes or is in addition to the 12 hours currently required for home health aides. The commenter expressed concern that a total of 30 hours would be a barrier to training.

Response: The minimum total hours of in-service training for advanced home health aides under the regulation is 18 hours. This includes the initial 12 hours for initial home health aide training. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment: A licensed home care services agency wrote to express concern that the demand for RNs will increase, as more RNs will be needed to oversee advanced home health aides. The commenter stated that recruitment may be more difficult as fewer RNs will be willing to accept the added responsibility.

Response: State Education Law § 6908 requires that RNs provide oversight of advanced home health aides. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.
